National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS)

The National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS) is a significant change made by the federal government in the way disability supports have been traditionally funded. The NDIS is not just a funding vehicle, it is a means to promote inclusion, capacity building and accessibility in the broader community.

The scheme was designed to provide people living with a disability meaningful choice and control over the services that they access to assist them achieve their goals and live a good life in their community.

The NDIS was launched in some areas of Australia in 2013 and will roll-out to all areas by 2020. It will progressively replace the existing disability arrangements in the states and territories participating in the NDIS and the Commonwealth.

Why Choose The EPICentre?

You will:

- not have to fit with us... whenever possible we fit with you
- have a say about what matters to you ... we listen
- have wheelchair access
- be treated as a valued individual ...we focus on your strengths and possibilities.
- have human needs, not service needs... we think holistically and look to the future.
- We are dedicated to ensuring that you receive the services you want (choice) within the time frame you specify (control) and in the way you want (flexibility).
